

The George and Olga Tsunis Center for Hellenic Studies at Stony Brook University and the
NY Chapter of the American Foundation for Greek Language and Culture present

The Post-War Origins of the Cyprus Question

Professor Ioannis Stefanidis

Professor Ioannis D. Stefanidis teaches Diplomatic History at the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki. He received the following degrees: Law degree from the School of Law and Economics of the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki; MSc in European Studies and PhD in International History from the London School of Economics and Political Science. He has served as Programme Assistant at the Greek Section of the BBC World Service, Research Associate of the Institute of Balkan Studies of Thessaloniki, Adjunct Faculty member of the 'Anatolia' College of Higher Studies of Thessaloniki, Faculty in Diplomatic History at the Faculty of Law, School of Law, Economics and Political Science of the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, Visiting Lecturer, Institute for European Studies, Hebrew University, visiting Associate Professor at the University of Cyprus. He has been Foreign and Commonwealth Office scholar, Fulbright scholar, Research Visitor, Hellenic Observatory, European Institute, London School of Economics and Political Science, and 'Stanley J. Seeger' visiting fellow, Program in Hellenic Studies at Princeton. He has written six books and several articles. His latest book is Substitute for Power: British Propaganda to the Balkans, 1939-1944 (Aldershot: Ashgate, 2012). His current research interests include information policies, propaganda and the use of the media in promoting democracy in third countries.

Wednesday, April 29, 2015

3 pm

Poetry Center

Stony Brook University

Supported by the Alexander S. Onassis Foundation (USA)