APSIA - PISA Opportunities

UNA-USA Fellowship at the United Nations Foundation

This fellowship provides funding for students who have secured unpaid internships with the UN. To be eligible for funding under the UNA-USA Fellowship, applicants must have already secured an internship with a UN agency prior to applying.
Deadline: February 28, 2025. Apply here.

Senate Chairman Internship

An internship in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Office of Chairman James E. Risch offers a variety of opportunities to learn about foreign policy in congress, the legislative and committee process, and the operations of an office on Capitol Hill. Interns are tasked with helping support office operations and assisting staff in their policy work.
Deadline: February 28, 2025. Apply here.

John Lewis Young Leaders Program

The John Lewis Young Leaders (JLYL) program looks for highly motivated students who are interested in making a career out of organizing work. The Program looks especially for students who come from marginalized backgrounds and are most often targeted by systemic issues that do not afford them the opportunities and resources needed to become human rights advocates.
Deadline: February 28, 2025. Apply here.

Institute for Global Affairs (IGA) Internship Program

IGA's internship program seeks highly motivated individuals to join us for 10–15 hours per week as part-time research assistants during either the Fall, Spring, or Summer terms (Summer applications now open). Research assistants will work on the Independent America project, a research initiative that explores the advantages and implications of a more realistic and restrained US foreign policy.
Deadline: April 13, 2025. Apply here.

Partnership for Global Security Communications Internship

This internship is an excellent opportunity to assist a recognized non-governmental organization with an ambitious, forward-looking agenda. The intern will work closely with PGS staff and its professional communications consultant and will gain an understanding of how a small nonprofit organization operates. The successful candidate will be able to contribute to the new PGS communications strategy and help develop its relationships with external stakeholders.
Deadline: Rolling. Apply here.

United Nations Intensive Summer Program

The United Nations Intensive Summer Study Program, designed for graduate students, advanced undergraduates, and mid-career professionals, immerses participants in the political dynamics of the United Nations. This week-long program familiarizes students with the inner workings of the UN by bringing them together with distinguished practitioners working in the field of multilateral diplomacy.
Deadline: Rolling. Apply here.

Global Policy Health Center Internship

CSIS GHPC is seeking an (undergraduate or graduate student) intern to support its outreach and research objectives for the Spring semester. This position will support GHPC in executing events, focused promotion and outreach activities and will play a key role in advancing GHPC's major initiatives.
Deadline: Rolling. Apply here.

First Generation Civil Rights Fellowship Program

The First Generation Civil Rights Fellowship Program, or FirstGEN, is a paid summer program for undergraduate students who are the first in their immediate families to attend college and who intend to pursue careers in social justice. From June 3rd through August 9th, fellows will serve as summer interns with a FirstGEN Fellowship partner: the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law, Advancing Justice | AAJC, or the National Immigration Law Center (NILC).
Deadline: Rolling. Apply here.

Joseph S. Nye, Jr. National Security Internship and Mentoring Program

The Center for a New American Security (CNAS) offers a rigorous internship program involving policy research, writing, exposure to national policy debates and decision makers, and professional development. Interns work directly with one or more of CNAS' research programs for a 6-month term.
Deadline: Rolling. Apply here.
